Welcome to ICOS Science Conference 2026!

ICOS Science Conference is a unique opportunity for targeted marketing and customer interaction. The event brings together around 600 environmental and climate scientists at the top of their fields. This time, ICOS Science Conference will be held in Lund, Sweden, from 15–17 September 2026.

ICOS, the Integrated Carbon Observation System, is a prominent European research infrastructure with a network of around 180 atmosphere, ecosystem, and ocean stations across 16 countries.

As a pillar of European greenhouse gas measurements, ICOS has high visibility in the global scientific community through publications, citations, and social media presence. As a sponsor or vendor, you can reach this otherwise hard-to-reach audience.

ICOS Science Conference: gathering the best European greenhouse gas researchers

ICOS Science Conference 2026 will feature leading research on ecosystems, oceans and the atmosphere, covering ground-based, remote sensing, and modelling observation techniques.

The 2026 edition of the ICOS Science Conference is expected to attract over 600 participants, both online and on-site, making it one of the most significant gatherings dedicated to climate science.

ICOS Science Conference 2026 will be a truly hybrid event. In that spirit, we offer virtual vendor booths built directly into the conference platform, allowing you to reach the entire audience.

Your brand at the heart of ICOS Science Conference 2026

In 2026, the ICOS Science Conference will take place in Lund, Sweden, a lively university town in the south of Sweden, just a 40-minute train ride from Copenhagen Airport in Denmark.

The conference will be held in the city centre at AF-Borgen, a historic student house. The vendor exhibition will take place in two rooms next to the grand plenary hall, where conference guests will gather for coffee breaks and networking.

This year, we have set up two booth categories – Showcase Booth and Premium Booth. You can also choose to sponsor the Icebreaker, coffee breaks, or field excursions to bring your brand closer to your audience.
